

President's Message

Dear Friends,

WITH JUST 10 DAYS TO GO for our first fund raiser event this year, I hope you all have purchased your tickets for the Dil Se event.

With your support and participation, we can make this a memorable night and a successful event.

The festival of lights too is just a month away. Kindly register your names with the Rotary office for the Diwali Night celebration.

The In Camera committee has planned a fun evening on October 29th, Monday, with Shivajirao Gaekwar from Sotheby's; kindly do register yourselves for the event.

Our Club attended the TRF Seminar and I am pleased to inform you that RCB has received the highest number of trophies.

We have many more fun filled events in the coming month. The details of which shall be shared in the coming issue of the bulletin. I would like each Rotarian to be a part of these events and join in large numbers.

Thank You

Rishabh Shah, Founder and President, IIMUN last spoke to Rotary more than a decade ago when he was a Rotaractor

Taking India to the world

Is it possible to get teenagers interested in becoming vehicles of change?

Rishabh Shah says yes

WHAT MAKES A BOY LIKE ANY OTHER exemplary? What makes a member of India's 300 million plus passive youth (in the ages 13 to 19) engaged in the country around him and passionate to effect changes? Rishabh Shah, who was on his way to becoming a Chartered Accountant, saw a mock UN being staged and participated in it and his life was never the same.

He has now empowered himself to similarly shape young minds across the country through IIMUN, Indian International Model United Nations.

Based in India, IIMUN is an external civil society organisation which conducts simulations of United Nations and Indian Parliament. This is held across different cities to encourage young citizens to envision their problems and take charge of them.

At the Rotary meeting on Tuesday, October 9, 2018, Rishabh narrated an anecdote about his grandfather who was very surprised that he had been invited to speak at this august gathering. Rishabh's grandfather, like all grandparents, is both proud and dismissive of their grandchild and their ability to effect change.

Taking advantage of their identity as being a demographic that can fly under the radar, Rishabh feels the youth, once engaged in their country, will actually be able to make changes one cause at a time.

Back in the day, it was upon the advice of the Principal of his college HR, Rtn. Dr (Mrs) Indu Shahani, that Rishabh took up Chartered Accountancy. By then he had travelled to Harvard and Hague for a Model UN.

The idea of role playing the Heads of State in mock UNOs caught his attention as he had not seen many being played out in India. He was fascinated with the idea of 'soft power' (influence without using too many official political resources) discussed at Harvard. And, with the help of Rtn. Principal Shahani, Rishabh began to convert the idea into action.

The main line of distinction between the mock UNO of Harvard and Hague and that of India was the structure of the political system in these countries themselves.

It was obvious to Rishabh that the work would need to begin with changing the perception of the Indian Parliament as being the place where 'they only throw chairs at each other'. Rishabh shares his observation from the 1st mock UNO where a 14-year-old role played the then PM of India, Manmohan Singh, a video of which was sent to INC. The initiative that he started at HR college continued after he left it. He continued to build upon it himself, giving birth to IIMUN.

The IIMUN has been applauded in every spectrum. It has helped renew the definition of Indian politics amongst students across the world with one instance where Japanese students role played Indian politicians, says Rishabh. In 2018, with an Advisory Board in place, IIMUN got a new direction. Students were beginning to learn about India, United Nations and Indian politics.

A committee based on Arthashastra now teaches students how to deal with problems of today, thus bringing about a thought of making our history relevant to our present.

THE IDEA IS TO GET INDIAN STUDENTS BETWEEN 13 TO 19 TO BECOME GLOBAL CITIZENS WITH AN INDIAN MIND-SET.

IIMUN aims to help the youth move from mundane classroom discussions to bringing a tangible change in an honest attempt to make a borderless world.

The IIMUN takes cognizance of the Sustainable Development Goals outlined by the United Nations; combat climate change, food for all and educate all. The organisation has smartly made students contribute towards these goals by stating that they will be given a certificate at the end of the competition only after they plant a tree or feed someone or donate a book to someone. Thus, slowly and gradually, a change will be observed. IIMUN also has, on its agenda, getting India a permanent seat in the United Nations Security Council; that is something Rishabh is very passionate about. He feels that the volume of students in IIMUN has add up to numbers that cannot be easily ignored.

ADMC AT TALWADA GETS X-RAYED

THE NEW X-RAY MACHINE, donated by Homi Bhabha and dedicated in honour of his mother, the late Dr. Amy Bhabha, is up and running at the Ajit Deshpande Medical Centre (ADMC), Talwada.

Rtn. (Dr.) Sorab Javeri and Rtn. (Dr.) Mehernosh Dotivala visited the centre on the first Sunday of October and were happy to see its effectiveness.

A team lead by Dr. Rohini Chowgule took X-rays, examining the large number of patients that had gathered. Dr. Ashwini Bhusara was similarly busy with her OPD.

On behalf of the ADCM Committee, we appreciate and thank efforts taken by IPP Rtn. Ramesh Narayan for having upgraded ADCM's facilities. All treatment at ADCM is free of cost.

Ananda Yaan beneficiaries give back

WHEN SOME ROTARIANS VISITED Ananda Yaan at Byculla on October 8, it turned out to be a satisfying evening for them. A few beneficiaries of Ananda Yaan were celebrating Daan Utsav by donating Jaipur foot to three people. Their involvement did not stop with the donation.

They went further and witnessed the entire process of seeing it being attached.

Rtn. Charu Agrawal arranged snacks for everyone present and personally spent time with them to celebrate this beautiful day of giving.

Bhavishya Yaan whole-heartedly supported the drive to get rid of plastic

SAYING GOODBYE TO PLASTIC

Bhavishya Yaan participates in ProjectMumbai.org's Daan Utsav to voluntarily give away plastic

ROTARY CLUB OF BOMBAY'S Bhavishya Yaan students at GK Marg enthusiastically participated in ProjectMumbai.org's Mumbai Plastic Recyclothon earlier this month. All the children had to do was donate plastic.

Mumbai Plastic Recyclothon is part of ProjectMumbai.org's Daan Utsav celebrations from October 2 to October 8, 2018, India's very own festival of voluntary giving.

GK Marg School registered for this project and the children collected four big cartons of plastic waste. This waste was collected by the multinational conglomerate Pepsico on Monday. They had partnered for the initiative by offering free collection services.

Eminent sculptor Arzan Khambatta, who joined hands with the not-for-profit ProjectMumbai.org to support the cause, will be creating a special art installation out of the donated plastic.

Apart from the art work, a significant portion of the plastic collected will be recycled into benches to be placed across Mumbai's open spaces, for the use of senior citizens. Recycled plastic will also be converted into waste bins.

Led by ProjectMumbai.org and supported by scores of citizen groups, Operation Plastic Recyclothon is a give-back gesture of Citizens to their City.

Two years ago, over 25,000 Mumbaikars participated in Daan Utsav, beautifying 36 Railway stations of Mumbai from October 2 to October 8, making this one of the largest such selfless and voluntary initiatives across India.
