
Anchors Chandra, CEO & Board members for Valued Foundation & Research Centre on finding her passion and purpose, in conversation with DPP Guest Blogger

Thank you for spending this afternoon with our members DPP, can you start by telling your readers a bit more about your self, your College, what are you thinking about your career?

Good afternoon, everyone and thank you for having me here. Yes, I had just graduated from Hill College and the last I applied for college happened to be with the College of Integrated Studies. DPP stands for Dan Hill Nashville but was Anderson Business Valley and Wood engineering Division, an annual event that we had more or less about one annual glimpse but when we were discussing we learning how with events as such. So I was there after my exam, and invited to some organization called Valued, a children company, or other
