Noted Criminal lawyer Majeed Memon in conversation with Rtn. Zulfiguar Memon.

Brand & design evangelist Ms. Lulu Raghavan in conversation with Rtn. Renu Basu on her newly published book: Go Further, Faster: Shaping a Life That Matters

- "The arc of your day is the arc of your life." If you want to achieve something, you have to make time for it each day. If you want to write a book, start by writing just 100 words a day. If you want to get stronger, start by lifting two pounds a day. Whatever the goal, it's those small, consistent efforts that compound over time, making it seem like an overnight success. But it's really those habits ingrained over time, for which I feel very blessed.
- In today's world, not just on supermarket shelves but also in the workplace, hundreds of people compete for the same job. Even within organisations, there's a lot of competition. So, how do you stand out? How do you ensure your work is noticed, and that you're selected for opportunities? That's where personal branding comes in.

However, Renu, I didn't want people to think that personal branding is superficial or just about promoting your achievements. While that's covered in the second part of the book, I've sandwiched it with two other important parts.

Part one is your foundation — habits that enable personal and professional growth. This is where the mind, body, and soul come into play: taking care of your mind, nurturing your body, and considering the soul, which includes emotional intelligence, kindness, and gratitude.

Part two is about promoting yourself using branding principles.

Part three is the realisation that life is a journey, not a destination. It's a reminder, especially to young people, that while this book could serve as a blueprint, you need to start thinking about these things when you're much younger.

- From an organisational perspective, especially after COVID, the whole notion of who a leader is and what kind of person makes a good leader has changed quite fundamentally. Before, there was very much an alpha male archetype of a leader, where vulnerability was a complete no-no. Empathy and kindness were not traits discussed at a leadership level. But today, that construct has changed entirely because power is now in the hands of employees. If your organisation and you as a leader don't treat people kindly and lack those softer skills, it's very easy to lose some of the best talent.
- Today, organisations are actually approaching leadership branding very seriously - how to brand CEOs, how the leadership team can have a voice in the industry and be known — because all of this helps the organisation in achieving its objectives. And, of course, from the perspective of culture, creating a culture that's inclusive, diverse, and allows every employee to feel like they belong and are making meaningful contributions represents a sea change from how companies operated 10 years ago.

- ...my strength is mentoring young women and helping women leaders rise, but we haven't limited the book to just women.
- To connect more deeply with people, you have to be authentic rather than make something up.
- If you think about the opportunities you want to get, whether it's a job opportunity, a collaboration with another company, or something else you're pursuing, that connection happens when there is a true exchange of your value proposition or what you stand for with the other person. So, your best bet is to be yourself because there's nobody else like you.
- Somehow, we're trained to mimic what others like or to be the way someone wants us to be. But I think our generation, and maybe the younger kids today, find it extremely tiring to always be someone they're not. There's greater acceptance of different kinds of personalities and professions, which we never had the liberty to explore. Even though I'm not that old, I wasn't allowed to pursue anything other than maths and science. And look where I am today, right? Very far from that. I think there's a lot more acceptance now, and everyone is unique. There's a real opportunity to play up that uniqueness rather than suppress it and blend into the sea of sameness.
- I realised how powerful it is to focus on what you have rather

Whether you're a CEO striving to achieve more, or a leader looking at your team, I've learned that being grateful for the strengths people bring to the table, or for what you have, fosters a mindset of abundance and generosity, rather than thinking in a limited or negative way. The notion and attitude of gratitude can be applied in many ways.

- A brand is the meaning or associations what you want something to stand for. Take the Rotary, for instance. The brand is what the Rotary stands for, what you want it to represent, and the associations people have with it. Branding, on the other hand, is the signalling system. So, everything from the Rotary's identity to its colours, key messages, events, and the feeling of a Rotary event, as well as the kinds of sponsorships Rotary does—all of these are signals of what the Rotary stands for. So, brand is the meaning or story, and branding is how you signal that story to your audience.
- So, for those of you familiar with design or design thinking, you may know about the four Ds or the design methodology. I adapted that and developed the five Ds of personal branding.

The first D is discovery. Before you can think about what makes you unique, you've got to discover your strengths. I've outlined a number of methods for discovering your "x-factor" — what's really unique and special about you. Some people know it immediately, but most find it difficult to articulate. So, discovering your x-factor is the first step.

The second D is defining. In marketing and branding, we call it positioning, a value proposition, or brand strategy. How do you define what it is that you stand for? I've shared some frameworks for doing that.

The third D is designing, which is about starting to signal your brand to the world. Is there a tagline you use in terms of what you stand for in your profession or beliefs? For example, Oprah Winfrey famously says, "You can be anything you dream of being." That mantra guides everything she does. So, that's the third D- design.

The fourth D is deploying. If you're looking for opportunities, is it your website, an ebook, or a published book? How do you deploy tools to get your personal brand out there?

The fifth D is delivery. At the end of the day, showing up consistently and clearly with commitment is how you build a brand over time. No brand is built overnight — it takes effort. So, if you shape your brand from a young age, a very clear value will become associated with your name.

- Often, when you're rising in an organisation, you think it's all about yourself. But by helping others rise, you can rise much faster.
- Rtn. Renu Basu: So, it's very important to be authentic when you're building your personality, and therefore your brand. It's about being genuine and true to yourself.

PRESIDENT'S MONTHLY MUSINGS

Dear Fellow Rotarians,

As I reflect on the vibrant month of September, my heart swells with pride for the energy and dedication that flows through the Rotary Club of Bombay.

September brought some incredible speakers to our weekly meetings, sparking conversations and sharing insights. We were honoured to host Anupama Chopra, a film critic and National Award-winning author, in conversation with Samira Sood. Her thoughts on inclusivity in cinema particularly thought-provoking. were Additionally, we had an enlightening session with PP Dr. Mukesh Batra and Rtn. Dr. Akshay Batra on the relevance of homoeopathy in modern healthcare. The father-son duo shared a perfect blend of traditional wisdom and contemporary medical practice. We also welcomed Past Trustee Gulam A. Vahanvaty, who expanded our perspective on Rotary's reach through peace education.

One notable celebration was the presentation of the Somchand Parikh Award for Best Teacher to Mr. Ajit Bhoir, Principal of District W. School in Savaroli, recognising his dedication and contribution to education.

The festive spirit of Ganpati infused joy across our Bhavishya Yaan, Lighthouse, and Ananda Yaan programmes. It was heartwarming to witness Bhavishya Yaan alumni returning to conduct a Ganpatimaking workshop for current students, a true testament to the lasting impact of our initiatives. The children at Lighthouse had their share of fun as well, indulging in an art competition at the NCPA and enjoying a trip to a local supermarket to learn practical life skills like budgeting.

We achieved significant milestones this month, starting with the inauguration of the Mallika-Rotary Dialysis Centre on September 1st, 2024, a collaboration with Mallika Hospital. This addition furthers our ongoing mission to provide affordable healthcare.

On September 28th, 2024, we were proud to inaugurate the Rotary Peace Grove at the Rotary-HDFC Biodiversity Park, in the presence of TRF Trustee Chair Mark Maloney and Rtn. Ptn. Gay Maloney. This initiative marks our dedication to environmental conservation and peacebuilding.

Our Legal Awareness Committee held an online event on September 21st, 2024, focussing on the rights and protections of senior citizens. Supported by the Maharashtra Human Rights Commission and the District Legal Services Authority, the event was a resounding success with over 100 participants, including residents of old age homes across Maharashtra.

On September 14th, we visited the Kamalnayan Bajaj Art Gallery for a fellowship event showcasing the life and legacy of Ramkrishna Bajaj. The exhibition, Freedom to Progress, was an educational and nostalgic experience that deepened our appreciation for the leaders who have shaped India's journey.

As we reflect on this month, I extend my deepest gratitude to all of you for your continued passion and dedication. September was filled with achievements and celebrations, and I'm confident that the momentum we've built will carry us through the rest of the year with even greater impact.

Warm regards, Rtn. Satyan Israni President, Rotary Club of Bombay

RCB INAUGURATES PEACE GROVE AT MUMBAI UNIVERSITY

The Rotary Club of Bombay marked a significant milestone on September 28th, 2024, with the inauguration of the Peace Grove at the Rotary-HDFC Biodiversity Park, situated within Mumbai University's Kalina Campus.

TRF Trustee Chair Mark Maloney and Gay Maloney led the inauguration ceremony, joined by distinguished guests including TRF Trustee Bharat Pandya, Past TRF Trustee Gulam Vahanvaty, District Governor Chetan Desai, and District Governor-Elect Manish Motwani. Also present were ARRFC and PDG Sandip Agarwalla with Malini Agarwalla, President Satyan Israni, Curator R/Ann Avaan Vakharia, and MU Vice-Chancellor Ravindra Kulkarni.

Despite challenging weather conditions, the event witnessed strong attendance from club members, representatives from various Rotary clubs, CSR partners, and university officials.

The Peace Grove represents Mumbai's first Peace Poles project, aligning with RI President Stephanie Urchick's priority of promoting peace and harmony globally. The initiative gains additional significance as District 3141 achieved Peacebuilder status in 2022-23 by establishing a $25,000 endowment.

"This project exemplifies our commitment to both environmental sustainability and peace-building efforts," noted a club spokesperson. The installation serves as a permanent symbol of the organisation's dedication to fostering understanding and tranquillity in the community.

The Peace Grove project stands as another achievement for the Rotary Club of Bombay, successfully addressing two crucial Areas of Focus: Environment and Peace. The installation features inspirational messages, including the poignant reminder that "Peace cannot be kept by force; it can only be achieved by understanding."

The with ceremony concluded expressions of gratitude international for delegates accommodating the event in their marking ed as "a packed schedules, what participants described as very satisfying morning indeed."

Animal Day at Lighthouse

Las week, our Lighthouse students brought Animal Day to life with vibrant energy, wrapping up a month of exciting learning! With enthusiasm and confidence, they recited lively poems and shared fun animal facts, showcasing not just their knowledge but their impressive public speaking skills.

Decked out in colourful, creative animal costumes, the children's excitement was contagious. Their energetic performances stole the show, making the day an unforgettable experience.

Beyond the fun, they honed valuable skills like research, presentation and self-expression. We're bursting with pride for our young explorers, whose curiosity and passion made Animal Day a roaring success!

SAFETY SESSION FOR LIGHTHOUSE CHILDREN

On Thursday, October 3rd, 2024, we conducted fulfilling SPARSH (Prevention of Child Sexual Abuse) sessions at the Lighthouse Project.

For children aged 4 to 7, we delivered a specially designed module with their mothers in attendance. Another session was conducted for students of Standards 3, 4 and 5, using a module appropriate for ages 8 to 10.

We were greatly encouraged by the interactive responses received from all participants. The enthusiasm reinforced our belief in the importance and value of these sessions. The awareness being imparted is particularly relevant in current times.

'Internet Safety' was also gently introduced to the older group of students, who were very responsive to our discussions.

We are grateful to the Rotary Club of Bombay for providing this opportunity to empower children. We appreciate the presence of Chairman Rtn. Vandan Shah and Ms. Manisha Ahuja at the Lighthouse, who helped facilitate the sessions. Our President Dr. Mita Roy and member Bhavna Daftary also attended the sessions.

KISSES FOR LIGHTHOUSE KIDS

Thank you, President Satyan Israni, for treating our Lighthouse Project children to imported chocolates. For many of them, it was their first time tasting Hershey's Kisses, sent with all your love. Thanks also to PP Preeti Mehta for celebrating your birthday by treating the street children through the Child Welfare Committee of RCB.

Lighthouse students enjoy storytelling

Megha, a volunteer storyteller at Lighthouse Project, recently engaged the children with two captivating tales. The first story explored the fascinating lifecycle of a caterpillar, helping expand the children's vocabulary with new words like 'stomachache' and 'cocoon'. The second narrative focused on Mahatma Gandhi's life journey. This story was chosen to complement the children's recent visit to Mani Bhavan, helping them better understand and retain their museum experience. A drawing competition based on these themes will be held in class to reinforce their learning.

Lighthouse students explore Gandhi's legacy at Mani Bhavan

A group of 30 Lighthouse Project students, from Standards 1 to 5, visited Mani Bhavan Gandhi Sangrahalaya to commemorate Gandhi Jayanti. Accompanied by four teachers, the students embarked on an enriching educational journey through the historic museum.

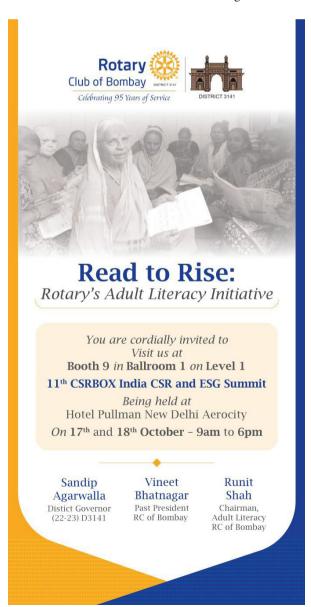

The young visitors were captivated by the extensive collection of exhibits, including Gandhiji's personal belongings, letters and photographs chronicling pivotal moments in India's freedom struggle. These carefully preserved artefacts provided them with tangible connections to the nation's path to independence and Mahatma Gandhi's philosophical principles of non-violence and simplicity.

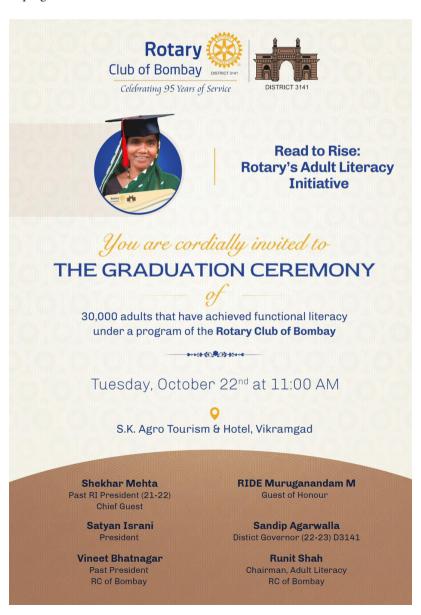

Throughout the visit, teachers facilitated meaningful discussions, encouraging students to reflect on how Gandhi's teachings remain relevant in contemporary times. The historical atmosphere of Mani Bhavan created an immersive learning environment, helping students forge deeper connections with this significant chapter of Indian history.

The educational excursion concluded with thoughtful reflections on Gandhi's enduring legacy. Students were inspired to consider how his fundamental values of peace, non-violence and simplicity could be applied in their own lives, making the visit both educational and transformative.

BY NMJ students attend virtual session on evolution of photography

On September 30th, 2024, students from B.Y. NMJ School participated in an enlightening virtual session on photography, organised by the Dr. Bhau Daji Lad Museum (BDL Museum). The interactive programme, attended by 52 students from years 5, 6, and 7, was conducted as part of the museum's Photography Festival celebrations.

The 90-minute session began with an introduction to the prestigious BDL Museum and its historical significance. Students were then guided through the fascinating journey of photography, from its inception to modern-day innovations.

The museum's experts showcased various photographic devices, including the rudimentary pinhole camera, polarised camera, Single Lens Reflex (SLR) camera, and the sophisticated Digital Single Lens Reflex (DSLR) camera. The presentation highlighted significant milestones in photography's evolution, from the revolutionary Kodak era to the digital transformation that saw the transition from pinhole to pixel technology.

"The session proved to be both informative and engaging for our students," remarked a school representative. "They particularly enjoyed learning about the technological progression of cameras through the ages."

The virtual workshop successfully kindled students' interest in photography while providing them with comprehensive knowledge about its historical development and modern applications.

Satellite Club doubles scholarships for girl child education

The Rotary Club of Bombay (RCB) Satellite Club has successfully expanded its fundraising initiative for the KGSS School in Malad, doubling their scholarships to support 300 underprivileged girls. President Raed Contractor and Director for Girl Child Education Chandni Gupta spearheaded this remarkable achievement.

The initiative gained additional momentum through collaboration with the Rotary Club of Bombay Peninsula, whose members contributed scholarships for 100 students. This partnership was facilitated by RCBS IPP Pranav V Makharia.

During a recent visit to the school, RCB Satellite members attended an inter-school Hindi Diwas Debate competition. Students demonstrated exceptional confidence and articulation while debating the topic 'Wealth versus Knowledge'. Their command of language and thorough research impressed all attendees. The faculty and students warmly welcomed and felicitated the Rotarians.

The visiting delegation toured the school's state-of-the-art facilities, made possible through KGSS School Trust's cross-subsidy model. The science laboratory, library, classrooms, audio-visual room and sports courts rival those of Mumbai's leading private schools, supporting students throughout their academic journey.

Principal Mrs. Manju Mishra received the cheque with tears of gratitude, expressing profound appreciation for the Rotarians' support.

The visit proved deeply moving for all members, inspiring discussions about sponsoring the school's star performers for higher education. This successful initiative marks another milestone in RCB Satellite Club's commitment to educational empowerment.
