PP HARESH AND RTN. PTN. SHARAN JAGTIANI ON THE LIGHTER SIDE OF LAW

RTN. PTN. SHARAN JAGTIANI:

Thank you, Akhil. And let me start by saying what a singular honour it is for me to be addressing this particular Rotary Club because of the several years of association. And there's another thing which comes to mind. When I was listening to the two introductions and thinking of the topic at hand, I heard the introduction of my father — the expulsions from college, the long hair, the rock music, the rock band. It occurred to me that there's clearly only one person who is authorised to speak on the lighter side of the law.

When I heard my own introduction, it was completely devoid of any lightness whatsoever, and I asked myself why, in my debut at the Rotary, I'm addressing you on the lighter side of the law. That said, let me say a few words before we begin what I think is going to be more of a conversation.

I was eight or nine years old when my father joined the Rotary. I was thirteen years old when he was the head of Programmes, and I was 23 years old when he was the Past President. For all of these years, Rotary was an absolutely integral and essential part of our lives. In the year 2000, he, and by extension the family, took somewhat of a semi-retirement from the Rotary — till we came back with a vengeance when my wife, Ami Jagtiani, joined the Rotary about a year ago.

In those peak Rotary years, what transpired at the Rotary Tuesday meeting was a common dinner table conversation that generally revolved around the speaker. If the guest was a poor speaker, a dry speaker, or a boring speaker, my dad, in his typically exaggerated ways, would come home and tell us that the speaker was so bad that at the end of the Rotary meeting, people were taking money out of the sunshine box. We all know that he is prone only to a little exaggeration, but that was generally his way of describing a boring or a drab afternoon. Conversely, when the speaker was an entertaining speaker or an enlightening speaker — and as we know, good speakers have the ability and the capacity to both captivate and elevate — they were praised to high heavens.

So I find myself today, in my foray as a Rotary speaker, being put to the test of what everyone over here is going to say to their families when they go home this evening. And the only comfort that I have, despite the pressure of whether you're going to be taking money out of or putting money into the sunshine box at the end of today's Rotary meeting, is that today I'm doing it as part of a jugalbandi with my father. And as with all jugalbandis, you sink and you swim together.

A couple of disclaimers before we start. The first is that this topic — the lighter side of the law, which means everything and nothing at the same time — was chosen by my father. I had little to do with it, and like most sons, my instinct was to feel that he chose wrong. And another perhaps common view that I have on my father's decision-making generally is that when it's done without consulting the family, it tends to be wrong — with the only exception being his decision to marry my mom. So, with this, if the afternoon falls into the category of taking money out of the sunshine box, he'll indemnify at least half of that.

Now, when we look at the subject of the lighter side of the law, the challenge in coming up with anything meaningful to say is that whenever I interact with anyone, they only tell me about their darkest experiences with the law. Before I came in today, I spoke to a Rotarian who told me about the miserable time he spent in court — the long years and the lack of any fruitful result. And these are years which are spent sometimes with uncertainty and prohibitive costs, often driving a litigant to penury regardless of the outcome of the case.

What adds to and compounds this dismay about the law and your interaction with lawyers is that lawyers are often compared with doctors. We are service providers and are supposed to be noble professions. But when we speak of experiences with doctors, we often come out of that experience with glowing praise. I'll give you an example, and it's one that connects with the Rotary. I consulted Rtn. Dr. Sharukh Golwalla some time ago. I was diagnosed with chronic fatigue syndrome, and I went to his clinic. He looked at me and said,

“All rubbish. The prescription that I have for you is that you have to go and spend three days in Goa — alone. Without your wife!”

What makes it worse, when lawyers are compared to doctors, is that at the end of that, when I asked him, “What do I pay you?” he said, “No, I'm not charging you anything, because of the fraternity that we have.” So, by contrast, and by juxtaposition, lawyers are always seen — and the experience with lawyers is always seen — in a bad light.

Again, when we look at the process of litigation and the process of law, there is always going to be two sides to any story. The truth is never black and white; the truth is always grey. And the litigant who consults a lawyer expects to be told with some degree of certainty what the outcome is going to be, what the future is going to be. But any reasonable and sensible lawyer is bound to be guarded in his or her opinion, because of the vagaries associated with the process of the law and the manner in which it operates in each of our lives. So, with all of the stresses and strains that go with the practice of law, it's really hard to find what is truly the lighter side of the law.

Another part that I want to share, as a matter of personal experience, is that what again contributes to the stresses and strains of the practice of law is the extremely public environment in which we practise our trade. We don't have the luxury of sitting in a room where nobody is scrutinising or observing us — especially as litigators. Your work is in a courtroom, where often times you're being viewed and scrutinised by two hundred or three hundred people at the same time. Your work is an open book.

In fact, in one of my very early days as a counsel, my senior, Mr. Dwarka Das, told me that arguing in court is like being one of those acrobats — those tightrope walkers in a circus — where the people who are in the courtroom are like those who go to the circus. Many of them are there to watch the act, but some are also there to watch the acrobat fall. And it's with this kind of pressure that we must function.

That said, coming closer to the subject at hand — what is the lighter side of the law, and is there, in fact, a lighter side of the law — the last point that I wanted to share with you as an introduction is that in this high-stress environment, one of the real attributes to advocacy, when you're arguing a pressure matter or a matter involving high stakes with significant outcomes, is the ability to introduce wit. It is the ability to make a light-hearted comment or crack a joke or say something that's going to reduce the pressure in the courtroom.

And oftentimes, that's an extremely effective tool of advocacy. It's in those moments that some of the giants of this profession have really made their name — in their ability to connect with another human mind and engage another human mind at different levels. You can engage them intellectually; you can engage them in a more human way. And that's really what we're going to try and explore when we discuss and delve into the subject of the lighter side of the law.

INTERNATIONAL EYE DONATION DAY – A COLLECTIVE CALL TO LIGHT

On the occasion of International Eye Donation Day, members and doctors of the Rotary community — Rtn. Dr. Nisheeta Agarwala, PP Dr. Rumi Jehangir, Rtn. Ptn. Dr. Sonia Kothari, Rtn. Dr. Cyres Mehta — came together not only as Rotarians, but as compassionate advocates for sight. Their unified voices inspired a heartfelt appeal to support the cause of eye donation and bring awareness to this life-transforming movement.

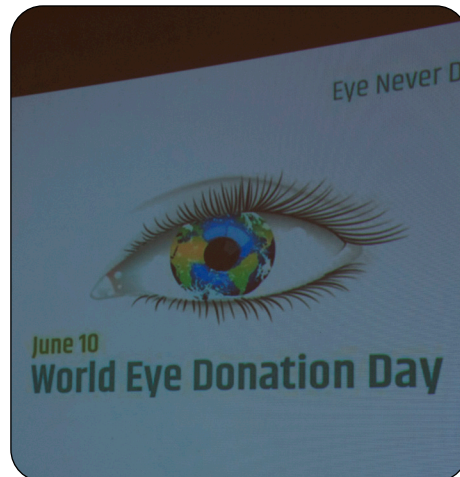

With significant advances in corneal transplant surgery and high success rates, one donor can change the lives of four individuals — taking them from darkness to light. Eye donation is open to almost everyone, regardless of age, religion, or medical history. Eyes are donated only after death, and even those who wear spectacles or have had certain illnesses can be eligible donors.

Importantly, eye donation is a quick and respectful procedure that does not disfigure the face. Despite a growing need — with nearly one lakh eyes required annually in India — only around 50,000 are currently donated. The demand continues to rise, and the supply must catch up.

To support this cause, all attendees were encouraged to collect and complete a Family Pledge Card, one half is meant to be kept by the donor, and the other handed to a close relative as a gentle reminder of their wish to donate their eyes after death.

Let us come together and pledge to be ambassadors of the eye donation movement — restoring vision, spreading light, and offering a lasting legacy of hope to those in need.

Congratulations to the entire team Transformation Salon which was selected as a recipient of the Love All Award by HDFC ERGO at The Spa and Wellness Summit & Awards 2025 that was held on Saturday, June 14th at Sofitel in BKC.

It celebrates organisations that are redefining inclusion by creating impactful employment opportunities and building truly inclusive workplaces.

A HEARTWARMING CELEBRATION AT WORLI AY CENTRE

The Worli Ananda Yaan Centre came alive with smiles and celebration as Ms. Akshata Hiranandani Jain chose a truly meaningful way to celebrate her son Anay Jain's first birthday — by sharing the joy with the senior citizens of the community.

In a world where milestone celebrations are often private affairs, Ms. Akshata's decision to mark this special day by giving back stands out as a deeply thoughtful and noble gesture. Her choice to celebrate among the elders not only created a beautiful memory for her family but also brought immense joy and warmth to the Ananda Yaan members.

A delicious buffet lunch was served, and each attendee received a return gift — a saree and an umbrella — tokens of appreciation that were both practical and heartfelt. The event also honoured the Ananda Yaan members whose birthdays fell in May, adding an inclusive and festive touch to the celebration.

Ms. Akshata's act of kindness exemplifies how moments of personal happiness can be transformed into powerful opportunities to spread compassion and build community bonds. It was a day filled with love, laughter, and shared humanity — a true celebration in every sense.

'WITH WINGS WE WILL FLY' – A GIFT OF SUPPORT AND SOLIDARITY

In a heartfelt initiative grounded in empathy and community support, the Inner Wheel Club of Bombay proudly presented With Wings We Will Fly—a thoughtfully curated guidebook on autism—to the parents of autistic children at SRCC.

This symbolic gesture was more than just the handover of a book; it served as a sincere acknowledgment of the strength, resilience, and unwavering dedication these parents demonstrate every single day.

Special thanks to Babita Shah Fernandes for generously sponsoring the project, and to PDC Jyoti Doshi, Divya Sharma, and Kauser Murad for their invaluable support.

IWC Enhancing Neonatal Care at KEM Hospital

On June 10th, 2025, a meaningful contribution was made to the Neonatal Department of KEM Hospital with the inauguration of much-needed medical instruments that promise to significantly enhance early diagnosis and care for newborns.

The donated equipment included:

- OAE (Otoacoustic Emissions) Screener – To identify potential hearing loss in newborns, enabling timely intervention and ensuring a healthier start to life.
- Advanced, specially designed pulse oximeters (2 units) – Crucial for neonatal care, these devices provide immediate and continuous monitoring in situations where complications can arise rapidly.

The Inner Wheel Club of Bombay extends its immense gratitude to Smita Sanghvi for her generous support and for helping strengthen critical care services for the tiniest members of our community.

Inner wheel club: Backing Brilliance with Purpose

On June 10th, 2025, the Inner Wheel Club marked a proud and fulfilling moment by handing over a sum of ₹50,000 to a bright and confident young boy, who has secured 89% in Maths and Science and aspires to join the National Defence Academy (NDA).

This meaningful gesture not only supports his academic journey but also reflects the club's commitment to encouraging the dreams of dedicated and deserving youth.

Heartfelt thanks to the generous donors Arin, Hemal, and President Mita for making this contribution possible.

IWC: Shopping with the senior citizens of Ananda Yaan

INNER WHEEL CLUB OF BOMBAY QUEEN'S TIARA 2024-25: It was a beautiful morning filled with excitement and anticipation as 80 elderly women from Ananda Yaan — an initiative by the Rotary Club of Bombay and managed by the Dignity Foundation — waited eagerly in line outside Reliance Smart Bazaar, Matunga. The sight of these senior citizens, radiant with joy and enthusiasm, set the tone for what would be a heartwarming and memorable event.

Each guest was welcomed with a rose and a traditional tikka, making them feel valued and special right from the start. With a shopping budget of ₹1,000 per person, they were given one hour to explore the store and purchase items of their choice.

Members of the Inner Wheel Club of Bombay Queen's Tiara, along with the staff of Reliance Smart Bazaar, actively assisted the women — helping them locate their chosen items, guiding them through the aisles, and managing the billing process. Though it required a great deal of energy and coordination, the smiles on the ladies' faces and the stories they shared after their shopping experience made every bit of effort worthwhile.

Special thanks were extended to all the generous donors, especially the club members whose contributions made this initiative possible. A heartfelt mention also goes to the members' children, who not only participated in the event but played a significant role in ensuring that the senior citizens enjoyed a seamless and joyful shopping experience.

This thoughtful and inclusive event served as a reminder of how community support and intergenerational bonding can come together to create moments of happiness, dignity, and shared joy.
